

HEALTH CARE AND PERSONAL COUNSELING

The Marshall University Joan C. Edwards School of Medicine provides its students with access to diagnostic, preventive, and therapeutic health services. Listed below is a list of physician practices, broken down by specialties, where students and/or their families may receive medical care. Students are encouraged to be proactive in meeting their health care needs.

LCME states that health professionals at a medical education program who provide psychiatric/psychological counseling or other sensitive health services to a medical student must have no involvement in the academic assessment or promotion of the medical student receiving those services (MS-27-A). Because of this policy, Marshall Health Psychiatry is excluded from the provider list, however, exceptions to this policy may be discussed with Amy Smith, Assistant Dean of Students.

Students may receive a ten free sessions Cabell Huntington Hospital Counseling Center. Psychiatric services are also provided at Pretera Center for Mental Health and Valley Health East Huntington.
