Every gift makes an immediate impact for Marshall medical students.

The Marshall University Joan C. Edwards School of Medicine prepares future physicians to serve the world in patient care, medicine and research.

Yes, your gift matters, and you can help improve the health and well-being for all when you make a gift to the annual loyalty fund and support our future physicians.

By making an annual loyalty fund gift, you will help Interim Dean Bobby Miller, MD ('97), provide much-needed scholarships for our medical students and allow him to lead our school in new initiatives that will enhance the school and our medical student's educational experience.

Thanks to the giving of alumni and friends like you, we continue to educate the future frontline and future health care providers. Your support is an investment in their journey.

Stay safe and well,

Linda S. Holmes
Director, Development & Alumni Affairs
